

The Fibula Pinning Us All Together

April 2009 – 1420 5th Ave, Seattle, WA 98101 – 206.624.6768 – facerejewelryart.com

Congratulations to our artists!

This month's featured artist, Peg Fetter, will have work included in the new publication from Quarry Books 'The Jeweler's Studio Handbook.'

Ford & Forlano recently delivered a necklace to the Philadelphia Museum of Art for their permanent collection. The piece was commissioned and donated by the Women's Committee of the PMA in memory of the late director, Anne d'Harnoncourt. Like Ford & Forlano's pillow necklace series, this one is reversible, with 100 hollow, sterling silver and polymer clay beads.

Mija Riedel of the Smithsonian Archives of American Art recently interviewed Mary Lee Hu. The interview will be transcribed and available on the Archive's web site.

The Compendium Finale of Contemporary Jewellery Makers of Darling Publications, by Any Lim, includes the work of Patrick Malotki.

Seth Papac just returned from Schmuck in Munich, Germany – the eldest exhibition of contemporary art jewelry in the world. Seth's MFA thesis show opens April 18th at the Cranbrook Art Museum in Bloomfield Hills, MI.

April 18th, Linda Kindler Priest will be speaking at the SOFA show in New York city.

In the March issue, Rapaport Magazine featured the work of Todd Reed in an article titled "Raw Power."

The Northwest Bead Society often hosts guest lecturers for the public. March 19th they heard from our very own Sarah Wilbanks regarding her photo-transfer on polymer technique.

Featured Artist

PEG FETTER

April 1 - 22, 2009

St. Louis based jeweler and blacksmith, Peg Fetter utilizes found steel and gold to create her tough yet tender wearable art. Her work is full of contrast: graceful yet industrial, delicate yet strong. Approx. price range: $75 - $700
